

Git and GitHub

Useful Shortcuts You Should Memorize

ctrl+shif+p: opens the command palette, which is a window where you can access all the options and commands in Code, including installed extension

Fuzzy Search: You can type part of a command or key to show available options ctrl+ p: opens the Quick Open dialog that is windows to navigate to the files in your working directory ctrl+shif+o: shows all symbols in the current file (the selected one) ctrl+t: shows the files in my current directory that contain the text I entered.

Prefix Characters

>: show available commands

@: show available symbols

#: shows text in all files in my working directory

Symbol: it is a name for a variable , enumeration, function, class